TRANS PERFORMANCE CLASS

23. - 25.05. Leipzig GERMANY

As trans, nonbinary, and gender diverse people we bring an expertise on the ways in which gender moves our bodies, is embodied through movement.

We spend years studying and imitating the gestures and postures of one gender or the other, just to un-learn and re-learn to express.

In our class we will examine those transgendered movements, and develop playful, self-reflexive, or absurd counteractions. We will also explore gestures, voice, and movement as archives of pride and persecution in our communities and tap into performance as a tool to be touched by the past.

It is both a research lab and creative practice.

The class is primarily designed with trans people with or without background in dance or theater in mind. We are open to anyone to participate, as long as you're respectful to our space. Priority will be given to participants from the community.

We meet Saturday, Sunday and Monday (state holiday). You can join all days or just one/ two - reach out and we'll find a solution.

Send a short introduction and let us know which days you'd like to participate.

Registrations will be considered on a rolling base. Priority for trans participants (if indicated).

Looking forward to hearing from you
